Chapter 1 by Skeld

"The stars that have the most glory, have no rest."

-Samuel Daniel.

Taken from "The Sad Glory of my King," by Old Maghn Eowardojan.

The Age of Warriors has long been turned into ashes.

But when I was young, I had the honor of serving under the Last King of the Thide, Glorian the Glorious. Ah, Thide... that wondrous land surrounded by the Sacred Mounts. Its lands were as green as the eyes of its humble people. The rivers ran blue as a maiden's tresses, and under the good kings of the Thide bond, it thrived, much to the envy of bonds Forressi and Thoall.

They envied the great blue dragons, for their own night dragons were vapid.

But, alas! all great things must come to an end, and so did the evil kings of these vile bonds formed an alliance to overthrow and obliterate bond Thide. Hence, they sought assistance from the wild Centaurs of the Aftiri Forest. The Centaurs answered for no King. They were wild and vicious, with no honor or glory. Ahhh!...'Glory'. That was the one thing Glorian had. Glorian. My king, my saviour, my lord....It was he who gave me the boon of life that night so that I may live long to tell this tale. And so I shall! This is the story of how Glorian the Grim became Glorian the Glorious.

It all began when I got the news of the Betrayal. It was a calm night.

No winds blowing, no lightbugs floating around the grasslands and no burning candles in the houses of Castle Mirigondra. The horse had arrived with the dead scout at the day's end. I immediately sent for the Royal Black Cloaks. The loyal commander came to me and said

"But, Chief Advisor! should we not inform the King!"

"HA! Loyal Gimthrang, should we alert the king when every bandit of the Aftiri kills a scout. No, the King is occupied. You may bring the matter to me. It must be some of those savage Centaurs' doing. It will be sorted in a day! But, I was soon to be corrected...
